

Question 1

You are to edit only Q1.vue

You are given the HTML structure for a simple campus events dashboard. The page contains

1. A navigation bar
2. A sidebar containing filters
3. A main area containing event cards
4. A registration panel
5. A footer

Instructions

Add CSS code in `<style scoped>` tag

Use vanilla CSS only. No Bootstrap. No JavaScript.

Q1.vue should display as described below:

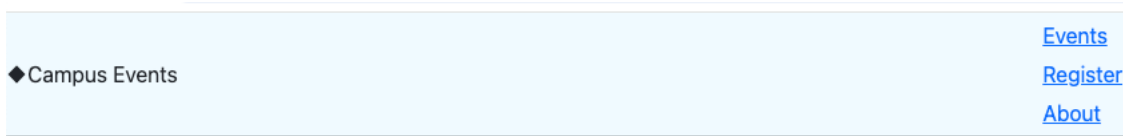

Part 1. Global styling

- a. Every button in the page should change to the “green” background color when the mouse hovers it.

Part 2. Style `.site-header` so that

- a. The brand appears on the left. Navigation links appear on the right. Items are vertically centred. Hint: these requirements can be done using CSS Flexbox.
- b. The header remains visible when the page is scrolled.
- c. There is a visible border at the bottom of `.site-header`

If done correctly, the `.site-header` should look like the following:

Part 3. Style `.page-layout` using CSS Grid

- The sidebar should occupy approximately one quarter of the page width.
- The main content should occupy the remaining width.
- There should be a gap between the sidebar and main content.

Hint: an acceptable layout could be

`grid-template-columns: 1fr 3fr;`

If done correctly, the `.page-layout` should look like the following:

Part 4. Style `.registration-panel` using CSS Flexbox as a separate panel with:

- Background color: `#ffffff`
- Border with
 - the color of `#dbe3ef` and the border size of `1px`
 - rounded corners
- Padding of `20px` (all sides)
- add some spacing between `.registration-panel` and other elements

If done correctly, the `.registration-panel` should look like the following:

Overall, the entire page should look like the following:

Question 2

You are to edit only Q2.vue

Instructions

- Bootstrap libraries are already included in the given resources. You do not need to import them.
- Do NOT reorder the DOM elements.
- Add Bootstrap classes only to the elements such that the page behaves as described below:
 - a. If the screen width size is larger or equal to 992px ($\geq .lg$), "Particulars" column occupies 75% of the screen width; "Courses Taken" column occupies the remaining 25%.
 - b. If the screen width size is between 991px and 576px ($.lg < \text{size} \leq .sm$), "Particulars" and "Courses Taken" occupies 50% each of the screen width.
 - c. If the screen width size is smaller than 576px ($< .sm$), "Courses Taken" occupies the full screen width. And the "Courses Taken" is displayed above the "Particulars".
 - d. If the screen width size is smaller than 768px ($< .md$), "Courses Taken" is displayed on the left. "Particulars" is displayed on the right. Otherwise, "Particulars" on the left and "Courses Taken" on the right. Hint: check out `.order-*` class in Bootstrap documentation.

If done correctly, the expected output is as follows:

Width: 992px
